

Shreves 2021

We have survived another year in relatively good health. We still Zoom once a week and have started meeting in person, people from before the lockdown. We are all vaccinated and boosted, wear masks and avoid large crowds. I even visited Brad and Ian in New York City in May. There was no theatre available but there was plenty to keep us busy. I am lucky to get to host Christmas with my whole family this year.

Aaron continues teaching at Rosalind Collegiate and enjoys his assignment. Rita is working in the biotech industry. Michael is now 12 and attends his middle school in person. He was recently the prince in the play "Charming" and he truly was! He continues to be an active member of a local swim team and recently had 2 1/2 years of hair growth cut and donated for wigs for cancer patients.

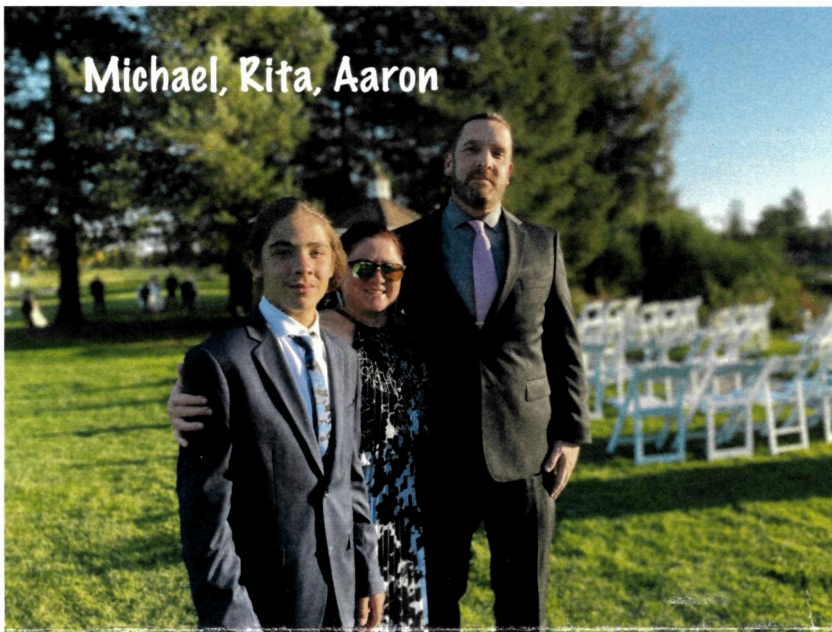

Brad and Ian moved from midtown on the west side where Brad has lived for 12 years. They now live in the same apartment where Ian's father spent part of his childhood in the Lower East Side. They have more room and a fabulous view. They are having fun exploring their new neighborhood. They both have maintained their jobs and continue to thrive.

John has cut his running down to every other day and rarely exceeds 5 to 6 miles. Age is catching up! On off days he will pedal his bicycle. He quit using ear buds for music for running. The reason? Running is supposed to be punishment, and pleasant music tends to mitigate that, thereby defeating the purpose...

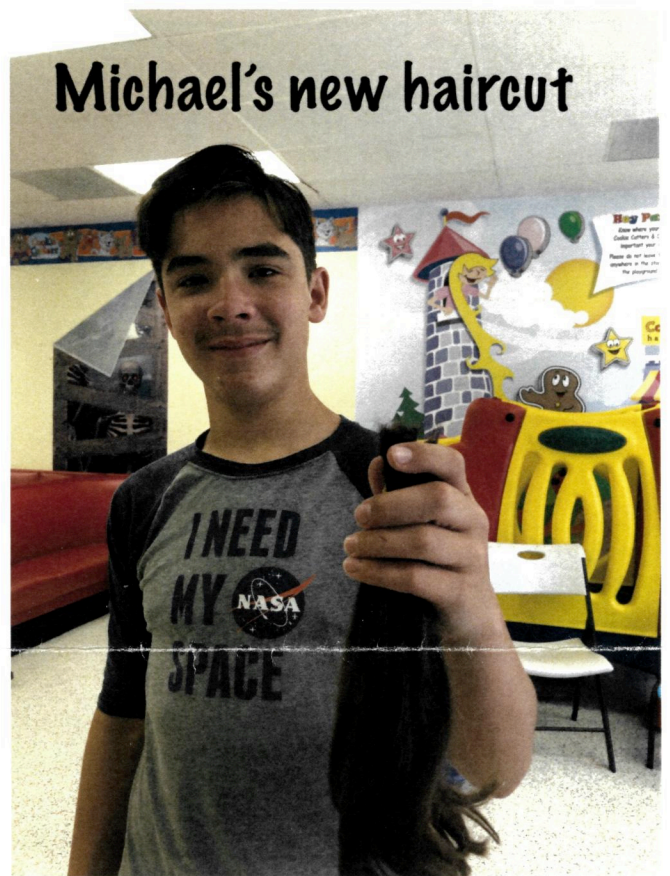

We would love to hear from you. We hope your next year is full of good health and fun adventures. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
